Past Performances and Recent News

Xgility supported the OCIO of a large federal agency in developing a shared-services model of enterprise collaboration services to support approximately 100,000 users.

Xgility transitioned over 2,000 users to Office 365 including Skype for Business, OneDrive and security policies. Our team is currently working to roll out Windows 10 and Office 365 for another 43,000 users.

Xgility has built secure, public data collection portals and e-forms to support the regulatory needs of a federal commission.

Xgility successfully transitioned a failing application development effort by developing a workflow solution, based upon a service oriented architecture, to allow a federal agency to accomplish its HSPD-12 security objectives and reduce card issuance times.

Xgility has helped several agencies establish a collaboration center of excellence to support the team, departmental, and agency-wide collaboration efforts

The Xgility team has helped the following agencies and commissions achieve transformation results through our collaboration consulting and software development services:
